

Lord of the Seas

Located 700km northeast of Sydney, Australia, and home to the southern most coral reefs in the world, Capella Lodge, on Lord Howe Island, brings a little slice of luxury to one of Australia's best hideaways. Lord Howe has a population of just 300, with a cap on the number of visitors allowed on the island's pristine shores at any one time. If you've secured your little slice of paradise, why not check into the island's finest room, the lavish new Lidgbird Pavilion, a 120sqm suite complete with an upper level bedroom, wrap around verandahs, and stellar views to the room's namesake peak. You'll be joined by the best names in the business, including Bohlu and Julie Paterson custom soft furnishings, a Tomek Campfire Table, a Bang & Olufsen television and sound system, and textures by Cardamatis and Saad. From AU$1,200 per person, twin share. www.lordhowe.com
